Hougen Magnetic Drill HMD904S

This lightweight, compact, and powerful unit is the drill of choice for fabrication. It features a gravity feed coolant system for repetitive drilling operations. Feed handles quickly change from side to side. Swivel base adds to versatility by allowing the user to precisely line up the pilot with the center of the hole. Great for horizontal, overhead, tight areas, and getting out over another piece of steel. Many other features including lift detection safety system, positive slug ejection, and rear mounted controls. Includes carrying case. See Selection Guide for additional drill specifications.
